Cold Spring

An old Danish proverb states that "After winter comes spring" and the sun is striving to convince us that Spring is here despite what the thermometers indicate.

The International Monetary Fund asks in its April 2017 World Economic Outlook if the global economy is finally Gaining Momentum, and the Asia Development Bank confirms in its Asian Development 2017 Outlook that Asian economies continue to perform well.

In April, the ASEAN countries' finance ministers and central bank governors met in the Philippines and underscored the need for continued cooperation, prior to meeting with their counterparts from China, Korea, and Japan on 5 May.

As a small, open economy Denmark yearns for predictability and commonly accepted rules – we want to be sure that 'after winter comes spring' (albeit perhaps a cold one). With global uncertainties on the rise we need to work harder to understand what to expect from the coming seasons.

Join us in Asia House for upcoming events in May to discuss what to expect from Global Politics and Economics with Jørgen Ørstrøm Møller, India today with Peter Johansen, and the Philippines as a promising market.
